Transport – The Next 50 Years

Major international transport conference for 2007

Wednesday 25 – Friday 27, July 2007
Christchurch Convention Centre, Christchurch, New Zealand

Sustainability, Integration, Economic Growth, Cars, Trucks, Trains, Planes, Boats, Buses, Bikes, Freight and People – Where to from here?

This conference is supported by the New Zealand Government.

This conference will be the transport conference for 2007 and is not to be missed.

The conference is about the future: the next 50 years and beyond. It will examine strategic directions in transport and address the key questions: where are we now, where are we going and how do we get there?

It will cover all transport modes to give real meaning to sustainability, integration, and economic growth. It will be an international conference with overseas participants and presenters especially welcome.

The New Zealand Government, The Ministry of Transport, Transit New Zealand, Land Transport New Zealand, Local Government New Zealand and the transport sector are promoting this conference. The Call for Papers is now available for those wishing to submit an abstract (refer to the website). Technical presentations and trade displays will also be welcomed.

Further information will be available in the near future but in the meantime please put the dates 25-27 July 2007 in your diary.
